Probable Cause Found in Case Against Rev. W. H. McLean—Bonds Reduced to $200 and Will be Furnished Today.

There was an all-day session of the city court on Tuesday because of the trial of the case against Rev. W. H. McLean, who was brought here from Newport News, Va., on a charge of embezzlement. It was claimed that he had the sum of $75 belonging to the New England Sick Benefit society of Norwich, he being president and treasurer of the organization. He pleaded not guilty to the charge and was defended by Attorney Browning.

There were many interested in the case who remained in the courtroom throughout the trial, at the conclusion of which probable cause was found by the court. The court then set the case for the next term of the criminal superior court under $200 bonds. It is probable he will secure bail today.

There were many witnesses called by both sides, it being testified that the accused had said from time to time that he was willing to square up the accounts as soon as by-laws and constitution were adopted and that he said he had the money in the bank. J. H. Perkins of the Dime bank testified that he had no money in the bank, but never a large one, and that it was drawn out and closed up before he left this city. It was always small.

From the testimony it appeared that Rev. Mr. McLean was the whole association as far as management was concerned until several new members were taken in, when there was a demand for an accounting, which was not forthcoming.

The accused testified as to the starting of the association and of making a trip to Hartford regarding the charter. Dr. Higgins was called to corroborate Sunday in consultation with Dr. Klein of that place.
